FARMS AND FARMERS

The Difference Between Good Producing Land And Poor

THE ANSWER—PROFIT ONLY

It costs no more to plow an acre of land that produces 60 bushels of shelled corn than to plow an acre that produces 15 bushels of shelled corn. It costs no more to till the rich acre than the poor acre. The seed costs no more. The difference in the cost of the two crops is mostly in the plant food that it takes to grow them. The difference in the crop is mostly profit. Of course, there are farmers who do not till their crops properly but even in this case the statement is substantially true. There is no profit in growing only one ton of tomatoes to the acre, but there is a good profit in growing ten tons of tomatoes to the acre. There is no profit in growing ten bushels of corn per acre, but there is good profit in growing 70 bushels of corn per acre. There is no profit in growing fifty bushels of potatoes an acre but there is a good profit in growing 200 bushels of potatoes per acre. There is no profit in five bushels of wheat per acre but a good profit in twenty-five, or forty.

The average crop in Delaware pays a little; the poorest pays nothing, the largest crop pays well.

Everything should be done to make land productive. Much must be done to bring all Delaware lands to their great degree of productiveness. It is on record that Delaware has produced as much as 53 bushels of wheat per acre. The average yield of wheat in Delaware may be 17 or 18 bushels per acre. As much as 110 bushels of crib-dry shelled corn per acre have been grown on a ten acre field, the average is perhaps 35 bushels per acre. A Kent County farmer cut seven tons of alfalfa in one season on one acre and another Kent County farmer grows from three to five tons of hay per acre, and after cutting the hay he immediately plows the land, plants it in corn and gets from 75 to 100 bushels of shelled corn per acre the same season. Such crops as these grow on fertile land, not on barren land, and these farmers are making money.

Big crops have been grown on various kinds of land, sandy land, loam, clay, black land. Any kind of land in Delaware will grow big crops if it is rich and properly handled. Some of the biggest crops have been grown on very sandy, leachy land, others on very heavy clay. Condition and not character of the land determines the yield. How shall the farmer make his land rich? Easy to ask, hard to answer. Harder to answer on the farm than on paper.

Land is made productive by drainage, tillage, plant food, humus, moisture, lime, good handling, good management, good seed. The successful farmer must plow, till, sow and reap at the right time and in the right way.

The big thing, the key to all, is the man behind the job, the farmer. Still, it is true that the rich farm makes the rich farmer. Not always, of course. The exception proves the rule. Any farmer may squander his inheritance; he may despise his birth-right. On the other hand a good farmer will make his farm rich.

By the way, what is a rich farmer?

One who has a rich farm, or a farm that is in the process of being made rich; who is doing good farming and is living comfortably without too much hard work; providing his wife with all the conveniences of a home, who is educating his children; one who is contented and happy in his work and is not making anyone suffer because he is in a hurry to get out of debt.

New Canal Bridge

Colonel J P. Jervey, U. S. engineer for the Wilmington district, expects to forward to the Chief of Engineers in Washington, in a few days, the recommendations of his office as a result of the hearing held this week relative to the construction of the new Delaware railroad bridge over the Chesapeake & Delaware canal. Colonel Jervey said that the railroad engineers are co-operating in every way with the government in the preparation of the plans. The cost of the new bridge is estimated at from $150,000 to $600,000, depending upon the depth of the pier foundations.

Muskrat Hides $5.05 Each

The dealers in muskrat hides have reaped a fine harvest. At the auction of fur held in New York, recently, prices showed an advance of 100 per cent. over last April. The offerings of these skins brought out the snappiest bidding of the sale to date, and a top price of $5.05 each was paid for the best brown pelts.

The last episode of "Smashing Barriers," will be shown next Friday night at the Opera House. The 1st episode of the new serial "The Invisible Hand" will be shown on this date.

MRS. LOUISA S. MOORE

Word was received here Sunday, announcing the death of Mrs. Louisa S. Moore, wife of the late William H. Moore. Mrs. Moore after a lingering illness died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Moore Windle, in West Chester, Pa., early Sunday morning.

With the exception of the past few years Mrs. Moore had spent her entire life in Middletown, and for many years was an active member of Bethesda M. E. Church. She leaves to mourn her death two daughters, Dr. Clara M. Moore, of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Sylvia Moore Windle, of West Chester, Pa.

The remains were brought to Middletown Wednesday, and services were held in Bethesda M. E. Church that afternoon, with interment in the adjoining cemetery.

MEMORIAL ADDRESS

Rev. George P. Jones, former pastor at Middletown, had charge of the memorial service and delivered one of the addresses of the occasion on Wednesday, May 5th. Rev. Edwin Whittier Caswell, also a former pastor, read the following closing address:

Mark 14. 18. "She hath done what she could." Is not this an appropriate sentiment to be applied to the life of faithfulness lived by the one whose memorial we observe to-day? "She hath done what she could!" What an epitaph for a tomb, what a motto for a life, what a crowning to self-sacrificing devotion!

Did not Sister Moore, like Mary in Bethany, pour out her life a precious ointment of consecration and service to her Lord, for her family, her church and her God? Did she not give her all for the blessing of her country and humanity, when she stood for the great moral reforms of the day? We thank God that she lived to see the Prohibition Amendment a part of the Constitution of the land, the greatest governmental act since Creation's morning.

Mrs. Moore had her sorrows, separations, losses and bereavements, like many others, but she trusted in the great Healer and Comforter, who made all things work together for her good.

Unbroken alabaster boxes are valueless, as many unbruised flowers are odorless. Our Lord broke His body for Mary, who had broken the alabaster vase for Him. Our departed sister had heard often the words, "This is My body, broken for thee," where she offered to her Lord the sacrifices of a broken heart and a contrite spirit. There is a wondrous power in broken things; we wish them whole for our enjoyment, but He would have them broken, that love may come forth and His life flow into the riven side. Our broken earthly hopes make room for His unsearchable riches. Breaking the marble makes the statuary beautiful; breaking the grain gives bread to the world; breaking the rocks opens the way to gold and precious stones; breaking the earth gives oil and coal for commerce and comfort. So breaking the alabaster box of loving sacrifice scatters the fragrance of devotion through church, home and community. The breaking of the heart of Christ on Calvary gave mankind the glory of salvation.

It is not the value of our gifts to our Master that makes them so precious but the spirit and motive of the giving. The finest giving is not for fame, glory or honor, but for Christ and humanity. So Jesus gave Himself that the fragrance of His holy sacrifice might ascend to heaven and make us free. He died like a God when He could have lived; He laid down His life voluntarily that in rising He might become our resurrection and life.

Mrs. Moore's departure sheds a sweet fragrance among all her acquaintances; the memory of her life is a blessing. So we say of her, "She hath done what she could." Nothing grander could ever be said of a mortal than these words. It is like what Peter said to the lame man at the Beautiful Gate of the temple, "Such as I have, give I unto Thee." Doing and giving the best we can is what Christ did for us. Prodigality of giving is commendable when the offering is for our Lord and His kingdom. Nothing is wasted given to Him. Give to Jesus and the poor will get their portion. Help build and support the church and all the community will be prospered. Jesus loves the gift of a little child as well as from the great and grand ones.

A little child once gave an English penny to be put into a missionary box that was being packed for a South Sea Island. Someone said, "Give it back to the child; it is only a penny." But, "No," said another lady, "Buy a couple of picture tracts and put them on top of the box." The box was opened in the presence of a heathen chief. The first thing that met his gaze were the little tracts and they became the means of his salvation and the conversion of his tribe. The little child's missionary zeal soon filled the whole island of heathendom. Who therefore can measure the influence of the widow's mite or of Mary's gift of the fragrant ointment? The whole world is learning the power and beauty of their devotion.

In the home at Bethany Judas was carrying the money bag, Martha was serving, Simon and Lazarus and the disciples were conversing with Jesus; things well enough for us to do, but the deeper spirituality of Mary excelled these little ministries, for she poured the treasures of her possessions upon the brow of Jesus, annointing Him for His burial. O, how much the act showed that Mary loved Him with all her heart, while the Jews and Judas cared little for Him, for they had betraya and a crown of thorns awaiting Him, while Mary cheered the Lord who was then approaching His sacrificial death. We are to-day fulfilling the prophecy of Jesus about Mary, by helping publish the story of her devotional deed. So it will be with our departed sister; her works do follow her. Her name is secure in the annals of the church militant and triumphant.

Mrs. Moore was a woman of superior mind; she appreciated the best and truest in literature and reveled among the great fields of Bible truth. She had a heart enlarged for spiritual affections and blessings when I saw her last, about three years ago, I expressed the hope that she would become better soon of her bodily ills. She replied with composure and tranquility gleaming upon her countenance, "Yes, I shall be

Work on our improved street paving is now progressing rapidly and if sufficient material can be obtained and weather conditions are favorable the contractors will likely complete the laying of cement during the coming week, and when the workmen finish grading the sides, the job will be completed. This will be gratifying news not only to our own people but to the traveling public as well, as many of the side streets where detours were made were confusing to strangers.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH NOTES

EPISCOPAL

Sunday, May 9th, 1920. The 5th Sunday after Easter. (Rogation Sunday.)

Services: 10.30. Morning Prayer and Sermon.

11.45, Sunday School session.

7.30. Evening Prayer and sermon.

The Rogation Days are the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday before Ascension. Their name signifies supplication, and they have been kept busy by the church as days of fasting and prayer since the middle of the fifth century. At that time Mamercus, Bishop of Vienne, in France, fearing that disasters were about to befall his diocese, appointed these days to be observed with litanies and penitence, to appease the wrath of God, and turn aside His judgements. The design in observing them is to prepare us for the feast of the Ascension, to pray for God's mercy to protect us from all calamities, and for His blessing upon the fruits of the field.

Ascension Day, (Holy Thursday) May 13th. There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 10.30.

Note on the Ascension. "And it came to pass while He blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up into Heaven." St. Luke XXIV:51.

The last of our Lord's dwelling on earth had come. For forty days since His resurrection He had lingered near, appearing to one and another, "by the wayside" and "as they sat at meat," whenever He saw their sinking courage and wavering faith, with divine comfort He blessed them. At the appointed time He is borne on a cloud, far beyond their longing gaze and straining their eyes they tried to behold the gleams of His glory. With joy and praise the church celebrates this day always, for now is our hope made sure and perfect. The ascension of Christ is the completion of his sacrifice, the consumation of His atonement, the fulfillment of all the promises. We know now that our Lord has "gone to prepare a place for us, that where He is, thither we might also ascend and reign with Him in glory." And on, what manner of lives should we lead in such an anticipation! How should we watch, and pray, and hope, and wait, for the day when He shall come again and receive us unto Himself. Let us pray that "we may also in heart and mind thither ascend, and with Him continually dwell," even in this our earthly home; so that each and all of all may stand ready and waiting when the message comes that "the Master hath need of us."

Please remember the date for the Parish Coal Fund offering is May 16th.

The Annual service of Old St. Augustine Church, on the Manor, will be held this year on Whitsunday, May the 23d, at 2 30 P. M. The public is cordially invited.

SUCCESSFUL PRESENTATION

The Curtain presented to the public, in the Middletown Opera House, on last Friday night April 30, their second series of plays. The entire program was a success. Although there was not a copacity audience, it was better than expected because of the poor weather conditions prevailing.

"The Bluffers" was a revelation to both those in it and those directing it. This play was very long, and as the cast had but ten days in which to rehearse, it was not expected to be especially good. However, both this play and "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler" were enjoyed by the audience. The weekly serial "Smashing Barriers" was also a feature of the program and Miss Clara Brady sang a solo. Mr. Hazel Price rendered several novelty numbers.

The club feels that it owes to several persons who assisted in these plays a vote of thanks. Mr. Lewis has earned the gratitude of the club by his hearty co-operation and suggestions. Miss Street, the director of the dramatic club deserves much praise for her successful efforts during the ten strenuous days of rehearsal. The club also wishes to thank all who were in anyway connected with this their second presentation of plays.

After a pleasant evening, spent in progressive games, music, and social good time, refreshments consisting of chicken salad, olives, rolls, coffee, ice cream, cake and salted nuts were served those present.

TRACTORS GROWING IN FAVOR

A few years ago you would see in some of the fertile fields of New Castle County, a tractor plowing, and surrounding it would be a half dozen farmers watching the demonstration. When the demonstrator had completed his work you would hear those who witnessed the performance advance many ideas as to its short comings, and some of them would declare that it would never be a practical implement on the farm. But conditions have changed and today the farm tractor is plowing a large acreage for the 1920 corn crop in Delaware. In fact it would be surprising to the average Delawarean, if The Transcript could give in figures, the correct number of tractors now being used in the state, and had it not been for the rapid advance in prices of these machines a great many more would have been substituted for the old horse and plow method of plowing the soil. And then too many of those who predicted that the tractor would not be practicable have changed their minds and some of them have bought and are operating the new implement on their own farm.

A SPLENDID DRUG STORE

Numbers of our advertisers have recently been making business improvements both in their buildings and in their apparata etc., and The Transcript purposes to give its readers from time to time some accounts of these betterments.

Ernest A. Truitt's remarkable renovation of the dingy old Barr Drug Store, is the subject of the first description. The interior has been entirely re-arranged thereby gaining not only more room, but also a greater facility for doing business, and adding moreover, greatly to the store's attractiveness. The entire inside has been repainted, finishing with a shining, washable China white coating, till the gleaming walls and shelving, together with the snowy ceiling reflecting the diffused light of five high power electrics counterfeit the dazzling noonday sun and well deserve the epithet for the store of "The Palace of Light." It is the finest illuminated business interior in the town, and with its big new marble soda-water fountain, and handsome mirror and lanterns lighted from the sides with colored glass panels presents a splendid spectacle.

Mr. Truitt has spared nothing to give his customers the highest possible pleasure in the way of effervescent drinks—flavorings to everyone's taste, and tasty aseptic glasses in silvered holders. Mr. Truitt is our oldest druggist and not only has had a wide experience of twenty years in his profession, but is also a regular graduate of Chemistry and Pharmacy with his well-earned sheepskin. He is careful and skilful in compounding prescriptions, and always attentive to business and polite to his patrons—all which high qualities have won for him a fine business in Middletown and the surrounding country.

NEW CENTURY CLUB MEETING

At the business meeting of the New Century Club Tuesday afternoon, two new names were added to the list of members. The chairman of Property reported this as the banner year, in the club history, as she had received the largest amount from renting the club house. The chairman of Finance, and chairman of Bureau of Industry, gave rather astounding reports of their successful year's work. Other reports were heard from chairmen of Home Economics, Civics, Legislation and Conservation.

The officers elected were: President, Mrs. Clarence Pool; 1st vice president, Mrs. A. M. Chamberlaine; 2d vice president, Miss Helen Shallcross; recording secretary, Mrs. W. K. Betts; assistant secretary, Mrs. Robert Gabriel; corresponding secretary, Miss Hester Jones; treasurer, Mrs. Julian Cleaver; assistant treasurer, Miss Josephine Biggs; auditor, Mrs. Lester Naylor.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

Spring Meeting Held in St. Anne's Parish Thursday

OVER 200 DELEGATES PRESENT

The spring meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Delaware, met in St. Anne's Parish, on Thursday, May 6th, 200 delegates from the various Parishes of the Diocese being present.

Bishop Israel preached a most eloquent sermon on the work of Women in the Church of God, taking as his text, "She hath done what she could", St. Mark XIV:8. Which the Bishop said might be interpreted, "She hath used what she had". The oration was a beautiful tribute to womanhood.

Rev. Edmund J. Lee, of Anking, China made a splendid address on the Church in China, telling of its needs and possibilities and showing wherein the Auxiliaries through their influence and help can further the work.

The offering of the morning service was voted by the Auxiliary for Mr. Lee's work in China.

An afternoon session was held after the bountiful luncheon served by the ladies of the Parish in the New Century Club, and reports of the year's work were read, and an address was given by Miss Grace Lindley, the General Secretary of the Auxiliary from New York.

The changes suggested by the General Convention which met in Detroit were recommended and brought before the meeting.

BRITISH CHEER SAN REMO WORK

Lloyd George Says "Treason" at Home Failed to Wreck Allied Comradeship.

EMPHASIZES GERMAN CHAOS.

France Told Annexation Policy Would Not Be Sactioned—Allies Know German Cannot Pay, But Wish Her to Realize Obligation.

London.—Premier Lloyd George speaking in the House of Commons on the subject of the recent allied conference at San Remo, said that before the conference there had been some misunderstandings, serious enough in themselves, but made grave by deliberate fomenting on the part of very reckless persons.

"But," continued the Premier, "I am glad to say that the sky is once more clear. So far as I can see everyone is satisfied at what happened at San Remo."

The Premier declared the conference had been the most remarkable one in every respect held since the armistice. There never had been such a conference as regarded satisfaction with the agreement by all the parties concerned or the happiness which had been able to bring about, he said. The conference, declared the Premier, dispelled all suspicion that the treaty of Versailles was not to be enforced.

Mr. Lloyd George said there had been no difference of opinion between the allies as to the enforcement of the treaty. A misunderstanding arose, he declared, over the question as to who should put down the disturbance in the Ruhr, which threatened the peace not only of Germany, but of Europe. The French thought it ought to be suppressed by the allies, the Premier asserted, but all the others believed it should be left to the Germans. This difference had been settled, Mr. Yloyd George said, and the Germans informed that the moment the German troops in the Ruhr were reduced to the proportions fixed by the allies last August, the French troops would be withdrawn from Frankfort and Darmstadt.

The Premier asserted that the misunderstanding of France concerning Great Britain's intentions regarding revision of the treaty had been removed. He said he had made it clear that Great Britain did not desire revision of the treaty, which must be made the basis of policy of the allies, and that Great Britain would act with France in its enforcement.

Great Britain had also made it clear, Mr. Lloyd George continued, that she would not sanction any policy of annexation by France in Germany. It was impossible, he declared, to have another Alsace-Lorraine. Such a policy, the Premier asserted, had been advocated by some powerful personages and journalists in France.

"I need hardly assure the House," Mr. Lloyd George said, "that M. Millerand and his associates readily and sincerely gave assurance that the vast majority of the people of France were just as much opposed to a policy of that kind as the people of Great Britain. I attach enormous importance to that."

Another misunderstanding that had been removed, the Premier went on, was that on the part of the French, who no doubt thought Great Britain did not mean to enforce the treaty with regard to reparation and disarmament. There was no difference of opinion on disarmament, Mr. Lloyd George said, but when it came to ordering disarmament there was no one in Germany who seemed to have the power to enforce the decree, and that was one of the greatest difficulties the allies had to face.

Turning again to the qestion of disarmament of Germany, Mr. Lloyd George said he had heard from the British officer in charge of the destruction of weapons that the Germans had faithfully given an account of all their guns. "Regarding rifles," the Premier added, "very great difficulty is being experienced. The men have not given them up, and that is a danger not only to the peace of Europe but to the internal peace of Germany."

TORNADO KILLS 50 IN OKLAHOMA

One Hundred and Fifty Injured When Town of Peggs Is Razed.

Tulsa, Okla.—Fifty persons were killed and more than 150 injured by a tornado that wiped out the town of Peggs, in Cherokee county. Not a building was left standing in the town. According to messages received from the devastated area, the injured were being hastily transported to Locust Grove and Tahlequah. Every doctor and nurse there has been sent to the devastated area.

GASOLINE RUNNING SHORT.

U. S. Bureau Warns of Acute Situation Before End of Summer.

Washington.—Warning of the probability of an actual shortage of gasoline before the end of next summer as a result of the disproportionate increase in gasoline production and the number of automobiles in use was given in a statement issued by the Bureau of mines. It is probable, the statement said, that before the "summer season is over it will become tight, if, indeed, it does not become short."

LABOR AGAINST CARRANZA.

Agua Prieta, Sonora.—Confirmation of widespread reports of an anti-Carranza labor movement throughout Mexico and a declaration that the American Federation of Labor is expected to give its support to the movement were made by Juan Rico, president of the Linotypers' Union of Mexico and secretary of the Executive Board of the Mexican Labor party, in this city.

PEACE RESOLUTION IS FILED IN SENATE

Move by Senator Knox Would Terminate War With Both Germany and Austria.

Washington.—A joint resolution proposing repeal of resolutions by congress declaring a state of war with Germany and Austria-Hungary was reported out by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by a strict party vote.

Introduced by Senator Knox, Republican, of Pennsylvania, as a substitute for the Republican resolution recently passed by the House, the measure was formally presented to the senate by Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, with the announcement by Senator Knox that he would open debate on it.

Leaders of both parties predicted several weeks of discussion, with little prospect of action until near the time set for recess for the national conventions. In some quarters the opinion was expressed that President Wilson, in the midst of the debate, might return the treaty of Versailles to the senate.

Virtually solid Democratic opposition to the substitute was predicted by leaders of the party. Senator McCumber, Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, who did not attend the meeting, said he and probably other Republicans would oppose it.

Straight-out reappeal of the war resolution is the principal object of the Knox substitute which would require the President to establish friendly diplomatic and commercial relations with Germany and with "the governments and people of Austria and Hungary." Like the House resolution, it would reserve all American rights under the treaty of Versailles and provide for repeal of war legislation and war powers of the President. It would hold German property until all American war claims were satisfied, but does not include the House provision for acceptance of the resolution's terms by Germany within forty-five days under penalty of a commercial embargo.

A formal report only on the resolution was filed by Senator Lodge and Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, administration leader in the treaty fight, decided to submit no minority report, but to present the opposition's arguments during debate.

WORLD NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

NEW YORK.—An indictment charging Charles W. Morse with violating the shipping board act, which prohibits sale of American registered vessels to foreigners, was returned by the Federal Grand Jury here.

BALTIMORE.—Returns from the Presidential preference primary in Maryland show that General Leonard Wood has carried the state over Senator Hiram Johnson, his only competitor. Wood got his heaviest vote in this city and in Eastern Maryland. Johnson won in Western Maryland and in the towns of Cumberland, Hagerstown and other rural sections.

NEW YORK.—Headed by the flagship Pennsylvania with the broad blue flag of the secretary of the navy flying at the mainmast head, nearly three score ships of the Atlantic fleet dropped anchor in the Hudson River, home from three months of drills and maneuvers in Cuban waters.

PARIS.—May Day passed with a series of small riots and disorders in which at least three persons were killed, including one woman, and many wounded, but without the declaration of a nation-wide general strike, which the union workers expected from the General Federation of Labor.

SALT LAKE CITY.—Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, largest producers of the commodity in the intermountain region, announced an increase in their price of refined sugar from a 13-cent basis to a 22¾ cents per pound. This caused a jump in retail prices of beet sugar from 16 cents to 28 cents per pound to the consumer here.

NEW YORK.—Al Joy, of Senator Johnson's headquarters, said that the order of the New Jersey Supreme Court in requiring a $50,000 bond for payment of expenses of a recount will preclude the Johnson forces pushing their demand for a recount.

JUAREZ BREAKS WITH CARRANZA

Severs Relations With Mexican Government and Rebel Troops Are Wildly Welcomed.

PROTECT AMERICAN LIVES.

Destroyers Will Go to Four Principal Ports—Two Americans Killed by Bandits—Gen. Escobar Closes the Port of Juarez.

Agua Prieta, Sonora.—The revolt of Juarez against the Carranza government of Mexico gave the Revolutionists control of the largest state in the Republic of Mexico.

Only one small Carranza garrison in Chihuahau, that of Casas Grandes, near the Sonora boundary, remains loyal to the central government, according to a statement tonight by General P. Elias Calues, commander-in-chief of the revolutionary armies in the northwest.

The fall of Juarez had been expected for days at military headquarters here. Emissaries from Sonora had been sent to El Paso to confer with Mexican officials for turning the town and soldiers over to the revolutionists, the commander-in-chief stated.

According to the General Calles, the delay was caused by the desire to have the revolt of Carranza troops, complete and take the city without fighting.

"We did this to avoid any complications with the United States authorities," he said. "We feared that in a battle bullets might fall into American territory."

More than half the length of the International boundary between the United States and Mexico now is held by the Revolutionists, he added, and conferences are being held through which they hope to soon have the entire International boundary in their hands. Thus Carranza's only communication with the outside world would be ocean routes.

General Calles announced that his troops here would move into Chihuahua immediately. Casas Grandes will be the first objective. At Casas Grandes there are between 300 and 500 Carranza troops, it was said, and among these have been reported evidences of pro-revolutionary tendencies.

From Casas Grandes the troops of Callies will be entrained for Juarez.

Sonora troops and those at Juarez will immediately move south, General Calles said, to join other revolutionists on a campaign through the heart of Mexico toward the capital.

Federal troops under General Manuel W. Gonzales, numbering about 1,000 men, stationed at Texcoco, four miles from the outskirts of Mexico City, have been driven out by advance forces of General Alvaro Obergon, candidate for the presidency of Mexico, who fled from Mexico City and joined the revolutionary forces in the south, according to reports received here today at military headquarters.

General Obergon himself is reported as being at Cuautla, Morelos, with the main body of his troops, preparing for a concerted drive upon the Mexican capital from the states of Morelos and Guerrero.

Governor Adolfo De La Huerta, of Sonora, commander-in-chief of the Liberal Constitutionalist army, is en route to Aguaprieta for a conference with General Calles, concerning the military campaign to be waged in Central Mexico, it was announced. He is due to arrive here tomorrow.

U. S. Warships Sent to Mexico.

Washington.—The chaotic and dangerous situation in Mexico, which demanded a conference of state and navy department officials was emphasized today by the dispatch of additional warships, most of them destroyers, to Tampico and Vera Cruz.

Repeated reports that Carranza has been cut off in Mexico City without means of escape added to the anxiety of government officials. It is understood that if the Carranza forces should after all concentrate at the state capital and give battle to the ring of revolutionists gathering for such a fight, the situation with respect to the large number of American citizens in Mexico City would be precarious.

COAST GUARDS DROWNED.

Three of Appledori Island Crew Perish as Squall Sinks Launch.

Portsmouth, N. H.—Three members of the coast guard crew at Appledore Island were drowned here when their 30-foot motor sailing launch was struck by a quall and sand. They were Reginald C. Chesterton and Leo E. Foss, both of Jonesport, Me., and Sherman Parker of Cape Elizabeth, Me. Elmer Alley, the fourth man in the boat, was rescued. The men had come to this city for a supply of gasoline.

PRISON TERM FOR LARKIN.

New York.—Extraordinary precautions were taken when James J. Larkin, Irish agitator convicted last week of criminal anarchy, was sentenced to serve from five to ten years in state prison, with hard labor.

CLOSER GUARD ON KAISER.

Time of His Removal to Doorn Is Kept Secret.

The Hague.—The date of the ex-Kaiser's removal from Amerongen to Doorn House is still very uncertain owing to the unfinished state of the house. The general state secretary, Kann, conferred with the ex-Kaiser, the captain of police and the burgomaster of Doorn on the question of the new residence.

The vigilance of the ex-Kaiser's guard has been greatly increased.

$500,000,000 STEEL MERGER IN CANADA

Nine Companies, Including Coal and Transportation Concerns, Form a Union.

Montreal.—Consolidation of nine steel, coal, shipbuilding and transportation companies of Canada into the British Steel Corporation, with a capital of $500,000,000, was announced by Colonel W. Grant Morden, a Canadian member of the British Parliament.

He said that it was the largest merger of its kind in the British Empires, and second only to the United States Steel Corporation.

Colonel Morden declared that the consolidation would associate the iron and coal deposits of the Atlantic seaboard of the Dominion with the steel-making experience and financial resources of Great Britain.

The capital stock of the corporation will be divided as follows:

Seven per cent cumulative preferred, $50,000,000, of which $37,000,000 is to be issued; 8 per cent cumulative preferred participating, $100,000,000, of which $25,000,000 is to be issued; 7 per cent noncumulative preferred, $150,000,000, of which $68,000,000 is to be issued; common, $200,000,000, of which $77,000,000 is to be issued.

Included in the consolidation are the Dominion Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries; Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, Ltd., and its subsidiaries; Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., and its subsidiaries; Canada Foundries and Forgings, Ltd., and its subsidiaries; Maritime Rail Company and its subsidiaries; Collingswood shipbuilding Company, Ltd.; Port Arthur Shipbuilding Company, Ltd.; Halifax Shipyards, Ltd., and the Davie Shipbuilding and Repairing Company, Ltd.

Negotiations are in progress with several other enterprises to enter the consolidation, according to Colonel Morden.

The London advisory board of the corporation, Colonel Morden said, will include Sir William Beardmore, chairman, of William Beardmore & Co., Glasgow; Henry Steel, chairman of the United Steel Companies of Great Britain; Viscount Furness, chairman of the Furness group of English steel industries; Benjamin Talbot, J. P. Managian, director of the Furness companies; Major Gen. Sir Newton Moore, formerly a minister in Western Australia, and Sir Treva Dawson, deputy chairman and managing directors of Vickers, Ltd.

LATEST EVENTS AT WASHINGTON

Nearly $1,000,000,000 additional revenue is sought by the railroads through increased freight rates. This has been made known by railroad executives in formal conferences with members of the Interstate Commerce Commission preliminary to formal presentation of the matter. The estimate makes no provision for wage increases.

Postponement of further efforts to pass soldiers' bonus legislation until next fall is probable. This is being advocated by some of the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee.

Demobilization of the navy from the maximum of 2,400 ships operated during the war, including hundreds of vessels from battleships of the first line to yachts and anti-submarine craft acquired for the emergency, is now virtually completed, it has been announced by the navy department.

The reaction against soldiers' bonus legislation has set in. Members of Congress who for a time appeared to have been stampeded into the movement for passage of a bill are beginning to hear from constituents who oppose the necessary revenue.

Colorful divisional shoulder insignia worn by the American expeditionary forces overseas were restored to usage, the war department rescinding a previous order, issued soon after the armistice, prohibiting the wearing of such divisional markings in this country.

Republicans of the House Ways and Means Committee are confident that action on the proposed soldier relief legislation will be obtained in this session of Congress by a compromise on the method of raising the $1,000,000,000 which, according to careful estimate, will be necessary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR MAY 9

ELI AND HIS SONS.

May be used with temperance application.

LESSON TEXT—I Sam. 2:12; 27-36; 4:1-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.—Rom. 6:23.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—I Sam. 2:22-36; 3:10-14; 4:19; 6:18; Eph. 6:1-4.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Calls the Boy Samuel.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Eli and His Sons.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Sowing and Reaping.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Responsibility of Parents and Children.

I. The Wickedness of Eli and His Sons 2:12-17, 27-36.

1. Eli's sons (vv. 12-17, 22). The behavior of these sons is in strange contrast to that of the boy Samuel. Eli's sons were priests and ministered in the things of the sanctuary, but "knew not the Lord" (v. 12).

(1) Graft (vv. 12-17). This greed was practiced upon the worshipers who brought their sacrifices to the sanctuary, according to God's law. God ordained that the priests should have the breasts and shoulders of the animals which were brought to the altar (Ex. 29:27; Lev. 7:31, 32). The degenerate sons of Eli were not content with this, but demanded more, and even sought to obtain it by force (v. 16). Moreover, they lifted out with a fork certain choice portions while raw, and had them roasted. Such behavior on the part of the priests was revolting to the worshipers and resulted in the abhorrence of the Lord's offerings.

(2) Gross licentiousness (v. 22). These wicked priests seduced the women who were employed about the sanctuary. They were so shameless in their practices that they did not even make an effort to conceal them. Ministers who indulge in such shameless practices would not be able to influence men and women to worship God. When men corrupt in heart and life minister in holy things all kind of corruption follows.

2. Eli (vv. 27-36). Eli was seemingly a good man, but he seriously erred before God in that he failed to discipline his sons (vv. 22-24). He knew of their sins and was conscious of his obligation, but his fatherly heart led him into a sentimental indulgence; his love got the better of his judgment. Eli was content with a weak remonstrance. He was under obligation not merely to speak against it, but should have acted against it. When the wickedness of his sons was resulting in contempt with the service of God's house, the father's love should have been lost in the light and justice of the high priest.

II. Eli and His Sons Punished (4:1-18).

They at last came to reap what they had sown. God has appointed a day of judgment (Acts 17:31). There is a harvest time for the sinner as well as for the righteous (Joel 3:13). If one has sown to the wind he shall reap the whirlwind. The Philistines made war upon Israel and defeated them with great slaughter. This judgment had been made known to Eli by a "man of God" (2:27) and Samuel (3:11-18). The Philistines were instruments in the hands of God for this judgment.

1. The battle with the Philistines (vv. 1-9). The Israelites made an unsuccessful attempt to free themselves from the oppression of the Philistines. Israel was smitten and some 4,000 were slain. This aroused them to inquire as to why the Lord had smitten them and to suggest that the ark be brought from Shiloh as a defense against the enemy. In this they committed two blunders: (1) The elders had no right to handle the ark; that belonged to the priests. Before taking such a step they should have sought the mind of God, and if it were his will that the ark be brought, it should have been done by the priests. (2) It was a superstitious use of the ark, which was a symbol of God's presence. They ignorantly assumed that the presence of God inhered in the symbol, forgetting that he is the living God, who has a will and purpose of his own, and therefore will not give countenance to that which disagrees with his holy purpose and will. Professing Christians in this age commit a similar error when they substitute the sacraments of the church for the presence of God in the soul. The earth rang out with a great shout when the ark was brought into the camp and the enemy was struck with fear, for they knew what wonders God had wrought in times past. In their desperation they made a stand, calling upon their men to do their best. With their backs to the wall they fought and won the victory.

2. Israel's disastrous defeat (vv. 10-18). (1) The army was routed and a great slaughter occurred (v. 10); (2) the ark of God was taken (v. 10), the symbol of the divine presence with its sacred memories torn from their grasp and with it went Israel's hope; (3) Eli's sons slain (v. 10); the very priests who were the custodians of the ark were slain; (4) death of Eli the high priest (v. 18). The news of the defeat of the army and the death of his sons was awful, but when he heard that the ark of God was taken he died instantly.

Had But One Sermon.

John the Baptist had but one sermon. Read the reports of his preaching and you will see that all his sermons are directed to one end. One thing he knew, and one thing he had to say. Over and over again he declared it, changing his illustrations and applications to suit his audience. But all the time he is intent on one thing; to get men to straighten the crooked and uneven path of human life that the Lord might walk therein.

ENGINE CLEANER IS LABOR SAVER

PRACTICAL FOR QUICK WORK

Motorists usually pride themselves on keeping the car engine clean by giving it a bath in kerosene every so often; this is to remove the heavy grease deposits that accumulate on its exterior. To get into all the crevices, beneath the carburetor and around the water-pump is almost impossible, for the brush used in the operation is much too large to permit this.

Remove Grease and Dirt.

A gasoline or kerosene spray, under air pressure, will quickly remove grease and dirt from the engine or the chassis.

The contrivance that throws this spray is shown in the illustration, being made at practically no cost, and will prove its weight in gold to the man who has much of this work to do.

Can Use Foot Pump.

A tank holds the liquid, and an aspirator is used for forming the spray. The aspirator is nothing more than a copper pipe which passes through the center of the tank, one end being connected to the air pressure line, and the other end being drawn down into a nozzle. A small copper tube connects this pipe, so that the cleaning solution is drawn from the tank and forced into a spray by the passing air. A foot pump can be used to inject air if no other pressure is available.

The foregoing proves that this cleaner is practical for quick work in either the public or home garage. It can be stowed away when not in use.—R. L. Prindle, in Popular Science Monthly.

SOME AUTOMOBILE DON'TS.

Don't drive fast around turns or over rough roads.

Don't apply brakes suddenly, except in cases of emergency.

Don't attempt to shift into reverse gear when going ahead.

Don't allow your clutch to engage suddenly.

Don't drive on crowded thoroughfares until you thoroughly master the operation and driving of your car.

Don't attempt to start motor with any of the transmission gears in mesh. Have gear shift lever in neutral.

Don't leave your ignition switch "on" when motor is not running.

Don't tamper with your carburetor unless you know it is out of adjustment, and not even then unless you know just what you are doing.

AVOID GRITTY SUBSTANCES

Dust Reflectors With Feather Duster or Soft Cotton Cloth—Wipe With Grain Alcohol.

To guard against gritty substances dust the reflectors carefully with a small feather duster or with soft cotton. Wet a piece of absorbent cotton with grain alcohol, if such can be procured, and wipe the reflector from the bulb socket outward and dry with a clean piece of dry cotton.

IN DESCENDING STEEP HILLS

If Brakes Are Applied So Hard That Wheels Cannot Turn Machine Is Very Apt to Skid.

In descending long, steep hills, if the brakes are applied so that the wheels cannot turn the car is apt to skid in a most precarious manner. Under such conditions tire chains with cross chains on every link and a transmission brake form the best method of descent.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

If oil is running out at the ends of the rear axle onto your brake bands the chances are that the oil level is too high.

The car owner should not forget that ordinary vaseline is perhaps the best medium available for coating battery terminals and connectors.

Drive using the lower gears. Shifting of the gears readily shows a good driver and at the same time often prevents stalling the engine in a dangerous place.

Broken flywheel teeth can be replaced by drilling and tapping a hole where the tooth has been lost and screwing into this opening a short steel peg, as hard as can be filed.

A cause of engine noise sometimes not suspected is the slapping of worn pistons, which, of course, is likely to occur only when the engine has been run a long time and the cylinders are worn.

Any type of tire will be injured by abuse. Riding on a soft or flat tire, dented and irregular rims, excessive loads, tire fillers and stiff reliners are the common causes for cutting and breaking above the beads.

AUTOMOBILES NOW HAUL TROLLEY CARS

The photograph shows an automobile put to a new use in the city of Apeldoonr, Holland. The car has been converted into a "locomotive" for the purpose of hauling one, two, or more trolleys through the city's avenues. The trolleys were previously horsedrawn, and many of the townsfolk preferred walking to riding. Today the trams are well filled during business hours.

VIBRATION IS QUITE INJURIOUS

Small Iron Bracket Should Be Installed to Prevent Flange From Breaking.

In fitting a new carburetor be sure that there is no looseness to cause vibration, because if there is a broken flange will be the inevitable result. If vibration is present a small iron bracket should be installed from a nut on the engine frame to the instrument to steady it, also taking the strain off the intake pipe.

A car should always be started in low gear. Open the throttle a little and pick up to five or six miles an hour.

A good grease, mixed in the right proportion with selected flake graphite, forms the best lubricant for bearings.

Many car owners are finding that oil cups may be substituted for the grease cups commonly used in many locations on the chassis, with eminently satisfactory results.

Sound Waves.

The term "sound" is often mistakenly restricted to the sensation involved in hearing. The term sound is actually applied to those aerial or other vibrations which, were they to reach the ear, would be audible. Sound is made of waves in material things of earth, like air, metal, water, or wood. A falling tree produces sound waves which vibrate symmetrically about it in much the same way as the ripples on a lake caused by throwing a pebble on its surface.

Phonograph-Alarm Clock.

The daily torture of the toiler's aural nerve by a strident alarm clock can be avoided in several ways. He may sleep all morning, or he may buy a gentle awakener now on the market. This new alarm clock rings no bell at the rising hour; instead, it starts a phonograph! Think of the delight of being awakened by the strains of "I Don't Care if You Never Come Back," or "Everybody Wants the Key to My Cellar."—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Beyond Expression.

An elderly lady was questioning the ex-artilleryman. "And what was the most terrible sight you witnessed in the war?"

"Well, it was like this," replied the soldier. "We had just spotted a German machine-gun nest with about 12 enemy gunners that were holding up our advance. We located the nest and put the first shot right in the middle of the Jerries."

"How dreadful!" interrupted the old lady, "did it kill them all?"

"No'm," replied the soldier sadly, "it was a dud."—American Legion Weekly.

Brazil May Remove Capital.

A remarkable plan for the wholesale removal of the capital of a country is being considered in Brazil. It has been suggested that Rio de Janeiro be abandoned as the capital and an entirely new capital with all the accompaniments of an entirely new site established in the state of Guvaz. It is proposed to make the change in the course of five or six years.

Mrs. Toddles Sadly Misunderstood the Note Sent to Her Hubby From the Library.

When a member desires a book that is not in a certain library, he files his application for the volume, which the librarian reserves for him on its return, notifying him that the book awaits his pleasure.

Now, it happened that one of the members applied for, but could not get at the time, a copy of a novel entitled "The Girl He Left Behind Him." In course of time a postcard arrived from the library, and as the member's wife is of a suspicious nature that postcard caused trouble, for it read:

"Mr. Toddles is informed that the girl he left behind him is now in the library, and will be kept for him till next Tuesday morning."—Pearson's Weekly.

"It does," replied the jeweler.

"Then where does your profit come in?" asked Jones in amazement.

"In repairing them," the jeweler informed him bluntly.

A golfer's wife had just told her husband that she intended to leave him forever, not because he was a golfer, but for some other reason.

"Will nothing alter your decision? Will nothing induce you to stay?" he asked.

The wife was obdurate.

"Well, he said, "it is a terrible shock, but while you are packing, I think I will go out on the lawn and do a little putting!"

This is reminiscent of a story of one of the heroes of golf, an Edinburgh innkeeper who lived a hundred years ago or thereabouts. He was so devoted to the game that he started playing at dawn and was seen at night putting on the greens by the light of a candle. At last his wife applied for a separation on the ground that her husband was not attending to his business.

He went to the court, admitted the impeachment, and said: "She can have all I got if she will give me so much a week to buy golf balls. She can look after the business!"

KEEPING WOOLEN GOODS IN SHAPE

Careful Pressing Will Do Much Toward Prolonging Life of Various Garments.

IMPROVES THEIR APPEARANCE

Better Results Can Be Obtained With a Little Practice—Ordinary Household Equipment Will Prove Satisfactory.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Pressing woolen and tailored garments at home is not as difficult as many people think. With a little practice anyone who can use an iron and has a fair amount of patience can press out the wrinkles which wear has put into a garment, and press in again the creases found in a new garment. Careful pressing will do much to keep woolen clothing in shape as well as to improve its appearance while being worn.

To press woolen garments easily requires special equipment, but good results may be obtained with the ordinary household equipment, with the addition of a heavy cotton cloth.

Additional Equipment.

A good equipment, which might be acquired by making occasional additions to the appliances already in the house, consists of an ironing board of the type used for skirts, a sleeve board, a seam board, a tailor's press board, a tailor's cushion, irons, wax, cloth for rubbing off the iron after waxing, a press cloth, cheesecloth or old thin muslin, and an old bath towel.

The seam board is a triangular board, about 18 inches long and 6 inches wide, and has the upper edge slightly rounded; it is slipped into sleeves when seams are to be pressed open. The tailor's press board, which is padded, rounded at the ends, and somewhat tapering, is supported by two upright pieces set on a heavy base. It may be used on any table and is excellent for pressing shaped and tailored garments, such as coats.

The tailor's cushion, sometimes called a "ham," is oval in shape and narrower at one end than at the other; it is made of heavy cotton duck or other firm material, stuffed very tight with wet woolen rags, then dried in the hot sun or in a cool oven to prevent mildew. It is used in pressing parts of garments that are curved, such as the bust of a coat. Smaller cushions made in the same way are used for the tops of sleeves.

A strip of heavy cotton duck about one and a quarter yards in length makes a satisfactory press cloth because, when thoroughly wet, it does not dry out quickly under the heat of the iron.

Before pressing a woolen garment it should be thoroughly brushed, care being taken to brush with the nap if the cloth has such a surface, and then well shaken to remove lint and bits of dirt. Pocket flaps should be turned back so as to remove dust and lint that accumulates underneath; pockets should be turned wrong side out; and stitching and the under side of seams and tucks should be carefully brushed.

All spots should be removed after the garments are brushed. Sometimes a little clear water will remove a spot made by a drop of sirup, but for a spot made by grease a special cleaning agent, such as carbon tetrachloride, may be necessary.

How to Press.

The garment should be laid on the board and covered with the press cloth, which has been thoroughly soaked in water and well wrung out. An iron, not too hot, should be moved back and forth over the press cloth until it is nearly dry. If it becomes absolutely dry, shine is likely to appear on the garment. The garment should then be hung where there is a good circulation of air and allowed to dry thoroughly before it is put away.

Parts that have worn shiny may be sponged with ammonia water (one tablespoonful of ammonia to one quart of water), covered with a wet cloth, and pressed with a medium-hot iron until the press cloth is almost dry. The cloth should then be removed, the garment brushed with a stiff brush to raise the nap, covered with the cloth again and pressed, care being taken not to let it become dry.

Bagginess at the knees of trousers or at the elbows of coats may be shrunk out in many cases by spreading the garment flat on an ironing board, placing a well-dampened press cloth over the baggy portion, and pressing until the press cloth is not quite dry, according to clothing experts of the United States department of agriculture.

PROPER HEIGHT FOR TABLE IN KITCHEN

Important Factor in Housekeeper's Well Doing.

Each Woman Should Find Out the Level at Which She Can Work Most Easily and Make Various Adjustments Accordingly.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The height of a woman's kitchen sink, washtub and worktable is an important factor in her well being and well doing. It takes more of her strength and tires her more to do the same amount of work when she has to bend over too far or hold her arms too high than when she is in a comfortable position.

The following figures make a good general guide in finding the correct height of working surfaces. Each woman ought to find out for herself the working level at which she can work most easily and efficiently, and see that her worktable, washtub and sink are adjusted accordingly. She should remember that the working level of a sink is the bottom, the working level of a washtub a point about half way between the bottom and the top (where most of the work of scrubbing is done), and that for ironing a lower surface is needed than for a general worktable.

MAKE MAPLE SIRUP AT HOME

In Some Sections Farmer May Produce All That Family Consumes —Sorghum Also Is Favored.

In sections where sugar-maple trees grow, or where sugar cane or sorghum are grown, the farmer may produce all the sirup the family consumes, says the United States department of agriculture. Many farmers of the North Atlantic states produce their own maple sirup and in the southern states the home production of cane and sorghum sirup is even more common. Sorghum is also grown to a considerable extent in parts of the North. It is not unusual for southern families to produce ten to 25 gallons of sirup for home consumption, making a very important contribution to the family living.

Ouija Board Said No.

A local tobacco salesman stopped in at a combination grocery and tobacco store kept by a colored woman. He spent some time trying to convince her of the merits of a brand of chewing tobacco. She was undecided whether to lay in a supply. He was very anxious to get her on his customers' list. They argued back and forth until she was almost convinced it would be good policy to carry his line. Finally she said with an air of finality: "Let the ouija board tell me what to do." The little three-legged pointer was put into commission and whether propelled by her fingers or going of its own volition, it made speedy tracks to "No." And the tobacco salesman left without the order. —Indianapolis News.

better when I go home."

Her feelings and faith were in sympathy with the Poet who wrote:

"When I go home, it will be evening,
And I shall hear my own dear people sing,
And see the lighted rooms, and take my place
As one of them, in that sweet time of grace.

When I go home I shall be very tired
Of struggling for the things that I desired;
But I shall be content to end my quest
Gaining the best things, peace, and love, and rest.

When I go home I shall be travel-stained,
For winds have beaten me, and storms have rained
And earth has clung to me by vale and hill,
But they will take me in, and love me still.

When I go home—oh, will it not be heaven
To be restored, accepted, loved, forgiven?
Sorrow and sighing are for those who roam;
I shall have found my bliss when I go home!"

Our sympathy and Christian regard are extended to-day to the surviving loved ones. May the blessing of mother's God be with them in this time of sorrowful separation.
